Aaron Wallace– Special Education Specialist

This week in Topics in History: Civil War.

The student' were taken back to one of the most significant battles in American history. Gettysburg. After learning about the 3 day battle the student's were asked to take the map of Gettysburg, look at its topography, and decide what role landscape can play in a war. Through this the student's were then asked to decide what better strategies could have been used to not only win certain battles, but to limit casualties.

Throughout this course the student's have been able to access diaries and letters from soldiers. They have taken a look into the lives of young men who were their age and see what they had to go through in their lives during such trying times. I believe this has allowed them to gain a new found respect for what our ancestors did only a 150 years ago. I hope to continue to provide them opportunities to explore some of the greatest moments in our history as we continue the Civil War and move into western expansion.

Blake Etchison– Social Studies Specialist

We are currently studying World War 1 in World History. World War One was the first major, international war in modern history. It started in 1914 and ended in 1918. All major powers were involved in World War 1. We are studying the use of propaganda posters and their effect on the population during war times. We have created our own World War One propaganda posters and have studied real ones for the past week.

Michelle– Interim Principle

This is just a reminder that we will only have morning classes on Friday so teachers are able to spend the afternoon reviewing and updating all students' ISPs. Students will be released at 11:30. If you have ideas or suggestions for your student's advisor please contact him/her today.

Also, Monday is a flex day so we will not have school on Monday.

PTSO Would like to wish everyone a wonderful President's Day and enjoy your extended weekend.
